

Socio-Economic Development Initiatives

In investigating new Socio-economic Development (SED) Initiatives, we considered the ultimate objective of social development which is to bring about sustained improvement in the well-being of the individual, groups, family, community, and society at large. Our initiatives involve a sustained increase in the economic standard of living of our country's population.

Ekurhuleni Welfares

📍 Alberton, Benoni and Actonville

 R400 000
in food parcel donations

Ekurhuleni Welfares are non-profit organizations that rely on support and funding from private and corporate donors and sponsors to supplement the insufficient funding received from the government.

Their objective is to protect and promote the interests, well-being, safety, and development of children within the context of family and community. They aim to safeguard children's rights through a holistic, intersectoral, developmental, and comprehensive system of social services.

Enkelabantwana Primary School

📍 Bulwer, KwaZulu-Natal

 R205 000
in food parcel donations

 R28 000
"Lollipop Lady" Irene's salary

As the students travel roads busy with truck traffic, the school has a scholar patrol lady who fearlessly ensures their safety. Affectionately known as the "Lollipop Lady" because of her patrol sign, Irene is a true guardian angel for the school community helping little ones cross the road and reminding drivers to slow down.

Theo Jackson Scholarship Fund

📍 Jeppe Highschool for Boys

in school and tuition fees

The Theo Jackson Scholarship Fund (TJSF) offers scholarships to underprivileged boys at Jeppe High School for Boys, making it the largest program of its kind in South Africa. Since its inception in 2006, the number of beneficiaries has significantly increased, starting with just one boy.

While the fund may not change the world, it aims to transform individual lives by offering these young men opportunities to become responsible husbands, fathers, and citizens of South Africa. The mission is to create a meaningful impact—one boy at a time.
